hospitality contract design with Pindler

While Pindler provides a wide range of decorative fabrics to professional interior designers for residential environments, the industry-leading international wholesaler fabric company also specializes in hospitality contract design — performance fabrics and products designed for commercial spaces. Using the revolutionary Alta finish, Pindler is able to offer fabrics that maintain a residential, decorative look and feel while providing the performance necessary for hospitality applications.

The Alta finish is an innovative technology that protects textiles in a wide range of environments. This helps ensure Pindler's interior design customers will always be able to choose the fabrics that fit their vision, without sacrificing durability and longevity. The company can treat any of its products with the Alta performance finish so that even pile and plush fabrics and beautiful, decorative, fashion-forward designs meet hospitality contract standards. With the Alta finish, the choices are endless.

To further address the requirements of hospitality contract design, Pindler has launched a number of exclusive collections with performance qualities — fabrics that are durable, easy to clean, UV- and fade-proof, and woven from all-weather acrylic — like its Sunbrella Architexture Collection by Richard Frinier, Pendleton by Sunbrella Collection and Sunbelievable Collection.

Pindler's contract collections and patterns offer the performance qualities and durability necessary for hospitality fabrics, all while maintaining a fashion-forward look and unique design aesthetic. ■
